Hearing on Versailles Sanitary Co.'s Petition for Temporary Injunction Against Eastern Strawboard Co. - Judge Shumway Postpones Decision-To Give Opportunity to Observe Corrective Measures Taken by Paper Mill.

While the jury in the superior court on Thursday afternoon was out on the MacDougall vs. Scott Co. case, a hearing was held before Judge Shumway on the application of the Versailles Sanitary Fibre mill for a temporary injunction against the Eastern Strawboard Co., of Sprague. The Fibre company makes the claim that the Strawboard Co. pollutes the water so much that it is rendered useless for the Fibre mill.

Arnold Ingalls Dennett, agent for the mill, was the first witness put on the stand for the plaintiff by Attorney J. J. Desmond. The mill makes absorbent cotton and surgical bandages, etc., he testified, and said that the water in their canal was clear at times, but at other times at intervals of about a week or ten days it was discolored and had a reddish brown sediment in it.

A number of jars of water taken from the canal in April and samples was made last Tuesday. The change was made last Tuesday of about $60 per day if they were compelled to shut down.

The witness said that the water has been noticeable clearer this week.

The Eastern Strawboard company's mill is on the stream above the Versailles Sanitary Fibre mill. The witness said the water was of an acid nature which was bad for the absorbent cotton, especially in government contracts. Attorney Edmund W. Perkins conducted the cross examincharles A. Kittle of New York, who chartes A. Rittle of New York, who said he was the head of the Versailles Sanitary Fibre mills on the Little river, testified that the discoloration which the goods suffered through the water made the goods unsaleable and he said the Sanitary Fibre factory could not keep in business if these wa-ter conditions continued. It was brought out that the Strawboard Co. is about 2 1-2 to 3 miles above the sanitary fibre mill.

The witness was cross examined by Attorney Allyn L. Brown and was ask-ed about a woolen mill and a sawmill on the same stream as the Strawboard Co. He said that the Fibre company has made frequent complaint to the Strawboard company. The plaintiff rested with Mr. Kittle's tes-Clarence Edward Covill of Hartford, above the Strawboard Company mill and that they used acid in their coloring matter and at times the strawboard company had not been abe to make colors they wanted in their paper because of the acid in the water that came from above them.

Mr. Lydal showed several samples of water in jars and bottles. One, very much discolored, he said came from the stream below the Airlie mill, another with a blue tinge came from the race way of the Airlie mill, and a third which was very clear was from about 50 feet below the raceway of the Strawboard mill. The mill was running red at the time, he said. was running red at the time, he said.
All the samples were taken this week.

Mr. Lydal was questioned at length as to the amount of water that could get into the stream from the mill, and was also questioned about the possibility from acid from printers' ink impregnating the water.

Judge Shumway said, after the witness had been examined, that he hesitated to stop the Strawboard Co's, business on the showing that had been made as he thought opportunity ought to be given to see whether the corrective measures taken by the Straw-board Co. would be effective or not. He adjourned the matters for two weeks, to the afternoon of Many 21st.

RIVER THIEVES KEEP STOLEN ENGINE HIDDEN Taken from Henry Beckman's 18 Foot Launch,

Nothing has been heard yet from the engine which was stolen from the 18 foot launch of Henry Beckman, one night more than a week ago.

The boat had been left moored near the Central Vermont railroad station over night. The next morning it was over night. The next morning it was found floating in the harbor, partially sunken with stones and with a hole pushed in the bottom of the boat. The engine was gone and there was another boat floating near the Beckman launch when it was found by a Polish man who was rowing around the harbor. The engine that was taken was a

EASTERN CONNECTICUT BAPTIST WOMEN. Met in Annual Session at Noank-Mrs. C. W. Gale President.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary conference for Eastern Connecticut held a largely attended meeting in its annual session Tuesday at the Noank Baptist church. The meeting was called to order and a devotional exercise led by Mrs. G. Walter Aiken of Noank. Mrs. C. W. Gale of this city, the president of the conference, conducted the routine business of the morning session. The business included reports from the societies, secondered. cluded reports from the societies, se-nior and junior, in the three associa-tions of the conference, Stonington-Union, New London and Ashford These reports showed the work of the women to be in a decidedly flourishing condition and to be giving much promise for the coming year. The following officers were selected: President, Mrs. C. W. STATE NORMAL TEACHERS NOT IN CIVIL SERVICE

Opinion Given By Attorney General

John H. Light. Teachers in the state normal schools are not included in the classified civil service of the state. This is the opinion given Wednesday by Attorney General John H. Light, who supports his statement by pointing out that there is no explicit extension of the law to cover this branch. There is reason to believe that the intention the farmers, instead of the often ambiguous terms of the written act. Anether point the attorney general considered was that to classify the normal school teachers would be unjust to the board of education.

Teachers in town schools are not included under the cisselfications, and the chance is that applicants would prefer service outside of state jurisdiction, where they would not come under the civil service requirements, thus depriving the state of the best teaching material.

The attorney general has also been asked for an opinion as to whether the teachers in the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs and employes at the State Experiment station at New Haven should come under the provisions of the civil service law. While he has not yet handed down any opinion on the matter, it is reasonable to expect that, inasmuch as the conditions of the two are so alike, he will decide that the commission has no authority over the instructors in these institutions.

The Agricultural college has so far submitted to the supposed provisions of the law, and has taken several teachers from the cligible lists of the civil service commission.

Many Join County Improvement League After Inspiring Addresses at Scotland Road Hall-Quarterly Conference Held.

A large and enthusiastic audience at Scotland Road hall Wednesday evening was addressed by Prof. W. M. Esten, M. S., of Storrs Agricultural college, Murray D. Lincoln, agent for the New London County Improvement league, E. C. Jewett and W. O. Rogers of Norwich. The meeting was held league, E. C. Jewett and W. O. Rogers of Norwich. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Scotland Road Social club. President Frank Wilcox introduced the speakers.

Professor Esten spoke upon The Fertility of the Soil. Study the soil, he said, rotate the crops, and know what each field you are using needs. Each needs lime, or else you can't raise crops. Phosphorus is gotten in a large way through putting on lime. A farm consisting of a small number of acres can be made to produce largely. One instance was that of a farm that had produced 40 tons of hay, which now yields 2,200 tons. The fertilizer that contains the largest numtilizer that contains the largest num-ber of elements needed for land is hat we get from keeping stock; this what we get from seeping stock; this far better than what we buy. He spoke in detail of the 16 different elements in the soil which correspond to the needs of the 16 elements in the human body. Murray D. Lincoln made a fine impression upon his hearers as he out-lined the work of the league, telling the conditions of membership and methods of increasing it. He especially emphasized the help of the Boys' clubs in the league. E. C. Jewett spoke briefly, saying that they wanted a membership of 5,000 in the league. Co-operation and the benefits to be derived from it was the keywate of derived from it was the keynote of what Woodbury O. Rogers had to say. As one result of the gathering many of the County Improvement league. After the addresses the committee in charge, A. W. Lillibridge, Charles and Irving Bushnell and J. D.
